Roberto DELFRATE, MD

Department of General Surgery,
Private Clinic
"Casa di Cura Figlie di San Camillo" Cremona

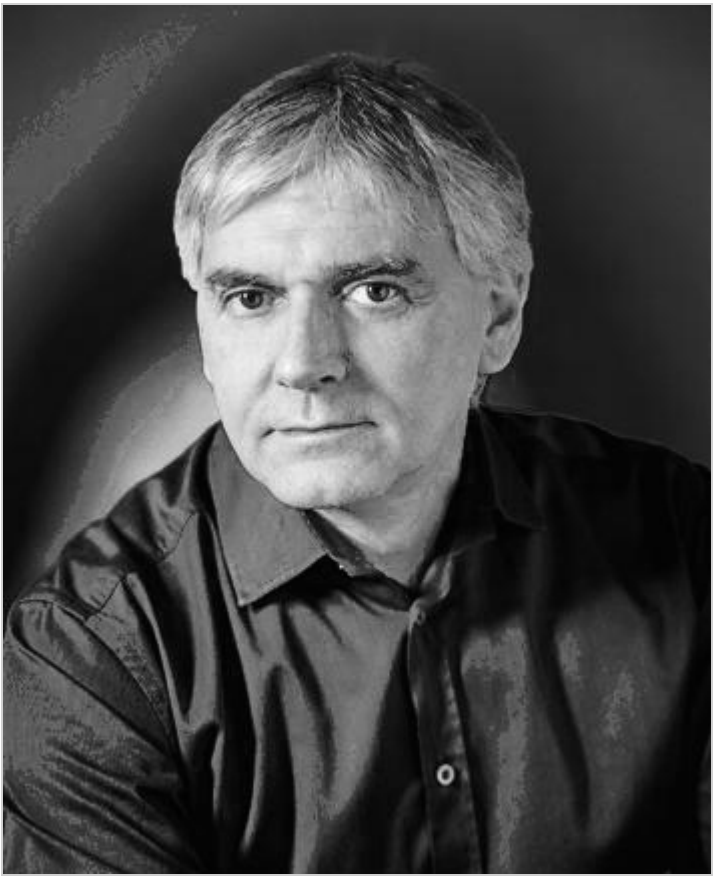
Italy



TOPIC:

Varicose veins of the lower limbs of pelvic origin: diagnosis and surgical treatment

Born in Parma on May 14th, 1957, Roberto Delfrate graduated Medicine at the University of Parma in 1983. At the same University he completed a specialization in General Surgery in 1988 and in Vascular Surgery in 1994. Since 2001 he has been a forerunner of the conservative haemodynamic diagnostics of varicose veins using Color Doppler Ultrasound. Starting from January 2007 he has been in charge of the Department of General Surgery at the Private Clinic "Casa di Cura Figlie di San Camillo" in Cremona where he has set up a venous hemodynamic diagnostic protocol and a surgery unit. Together with Claude Franceschi, he has organized theoretical and practical training courses with the goal to spread knowledge of the principles of the venous haemodynamic diagnostics and surgery. During the 2013-2014 academic year, he has taught a course on “Diagnostics and Haemodynamic Treatment of the Venous Insufficiency of the Lower Limbs” at the post-graduate school of Vascular Surgery in the University of Milan.

Regarding his skills and competences, he has performed more than 60.000 venous and arterial haemodynamic Color Doppler Ultrasound diagnostic procedures and more than 3.500 CHIVA surgical corrections (the interruption of the ill influxing vessels with the maintenance of the truncal vein). In addition, he has published 3 books, one in English: "A new diagnostic approach to varicose veins: haemodynamic evaluation and treatment" (2014) and 2 in Italian: "Moderni Fondamenti di diagnostica emodinamica dell’insufficienza venosa degli arti inferiori” (2013) and "Manuale di emodinamica venosa degli arti inferiori" (2010).

We are honored to introduce Dr. Roberto Delfrate as one of our keynote speakers!
